

The NLC's Prior Learning Assessment (PLA) program honors your lifelong learning experiences by offering you the opportunity to earn up to one year (30 credits) of college credits through a writing intensive portfolio development process. PLA helps you to compare your learning experiences to the learning objectives in accredited college courses and build clear arguments that you have achieved this learning from learning experiences outside the classroom.

When you apply to the NLC, your transfer credits will be reviewed—if you have fewer than 90 transfer credits, you are eligible to participate in PLA portfolio development. Applicants with fewer than 56 credits may take part in the program to earn credits necessary for admission.

RESTRICTIONS FOR PRIOR LEARNING ASSESSMENT

PLA essays are limited to subject matter represented by the NLC degree programs and faculty expertise, so you should begin your learning analysis with NLC courses or courses with similar content. Additional reviews may, on a case-by-case basis, be conducted in content areas that are represented by NLC faculty with documented expertise in specific areas. All other reviews are considered external reviews and are subject to additional fees and conditions as outlined in the catalogue.
